CHAPTER 26

Paragraph Writing

1. My Biggest Quality

My biggest quality is punctuality. I believe that a person can only become successful if he realises the importance of time. My parents have taught me that punctuality makes a person capable to handle all appointments on time. It is a must for a school going child like me as it brings discipline in my life and also gives a good impression of myself on my teachers and principal. I have realised that it has also made me grab opportunities that were out of my reach, but because I was on time I was able to get it. Punctuality is imbibed in me and I feel proud to say that I am a punctual person.

2. Process of Ironing your Clothes

First, take an iron and plug it carefully on the board. Remember, don't use wet hands as it can give you an electric shock. Adjust its setting according to the cloth that has to be ironed and leave it for pre-heating. You can check whether the iron is pre-heated by sizzling of water, when sprayed on the iron. Use high heat for clothes like cottons and linen. On the other hand use low heat on clothes like silk, rayon etc. As you iron, make sure that you iron clothing evenly with smooth, careful strokes. Always remember to keep the iron moving. Stopping at any point could burn your clothing.

3. A Day of Troubles

It was a usual Monday morning, I woke up even though. I was feeling lazy to do so. As soon as I got out of my bed I saw that my cat has shred the Science assignment which had to be submitted that day. I ran to my mother and asked her to help me, though it was all in vain. I went to school and apologised my teacher and promised her to give the assignment the next day. Due to hurry, I started working on my assignment in Maths period and got a very bad punishment from my Maths teacher. I was standing outside the class in punishment suddenly I heard two boys cracking jokes on which I started laughing. My Maths teacher saw me and thought that I was enjoying outside. This made her to take me to Principal's office. The Principal called my parents and I got scolding from them too. It was seriously a day of troubles for me.

4. Your Role Model

To me a role model is someone who motivates and encourages me daily to become successful in life. Therefore, my role model is my mother. She is someone, who forgets herself and has no trace of greed and selfishness. She is the one who I can look up always for advice and help, since I know it will always be good for me. She is smart, wise, ambitious, patient and such a loving person. She teaches me to stay positive in every situation and is always on my side to motivate and support me in difficult times. Though, she is not always strong as she cries when she sees anyone in our family achieving success. This shows her boundless love for all of us. My mother is and always be my role model as she does so much for me and can do anything to bring happiness on our faces.

5. A Scene at Railway Station

On a long weekend me and my family planned to go to Shimla. We booked train tickets for the same. Due to excitement, we reached before time to New Delhi Railway Station. We had around one hour with us. So, we decided to sit on the benches laid on the platforms. There was a large crowd on the platform. Some were buying book and magazines from the book stall. Next to the bookstall, there was a tea stall where all were enjoying tea with snacks. The vendors were having a busy time. The coolies were going up and down carrying luggages. Suddenly, a train arrived, there was a great rush. The passengers were rushing and loading their luggages, pushing each other, throwing bags from the window etc. Soon the guard whistled and waved a green flag and the train departed. Our train also arrived after 10 minutes. A person cannot get bored in a railway station, as you get to observe many things going around you.

6. My Neighbour

I thank God that he has given me a lovely neighbour like Mr. Patel. He is a business man. He owns a bakery named 'Sweet Tooth'. Whenever, he launches new pastries or cakes, he brings to us for letting him know genuinely about its taste and presentation. He is very simple, kind, modest and a caring person. He stays alone as his family has shifted to America. He believes that we are his family and treat us like his family members. He is very close to us and so are we to him. He has always been a great help whenever we asked his assistance and advice. We go for picnics and other outings with him. We have a good time together. We even celebrate festivals together. I pray that all should get a neighbour like I have.

7. Your Greatest Fear

My greatest fear is failure. I've been told there and then by my teachers and elders that failures are important in one's life or things like failure are key to success. But they do not affect my thinking of being afraid of failure. I am afraid that if I fail, I would lose respect in front of everyone. People will mock at me and make fun of me. The fear of getting failed help me to study more and more for my exams. Though fear of a person in a weakness but it sometimes prove good for me.

8. Autobiography of a Pen

I am a pen. I am used for writing. I have a great importance in everyone's life. Be it a lecturer or be it a helper, every class use me to solve the purpose of writing. Studies would not have been possible without my invention. The writers find pleasure in writing from me. Whereas, a student feel rejoiced after completing his work with my help. The present and history is all dependent on what I write. I am a real boon for the world. I enjoy running over the soft smooth pages of a diary and even in panic situations like that of a student's exam. My bleed brings happiness and sorrow both. I can sign a cheque of crores or can ruin everything with the same sign. Though I am a non living thing but no wonder I manage all the living things around me.

9. Your Favourite Thing to do on a Weekend

Weekend comes with plans in our minds. Every weekend we plan to go out and hangout to feel refresh from monotonous life schedule. But, the most favourite thing to do on weekend is to shop with my mother and father. This is because I buy new clothes, toys, books etc. I am very fond of games. So, weekend is the best time to buy new games and their accessories. This is also because my mother and father are working and can only spend time on weekends with me. We not only shop together but also hangout and have lunch and dinner outside in new restaurants. Shopping brings happiness to all. After coming back home I make sure that the new things I got should be kept in place and the old ones should be donated the next day. This is the best part of bringing new things home.

10. The Clothes I Do not Like to Wear

It is you, yourself, who sets up trend. We should not follow others blindly for sake of becoming fashionable and trendy. There are certain type of clothes that suit a particular body shape or size. Some clothes look good on some people while they do not look good on others. The clothes that I do not like to wear includes tight, fitted and fancy clothes. I believe that I look more elegant when I wear simple. Adding on to much bling and design runs the clothes itself. One can make out the personality of a person through his clothes. So one should dress up properly.

11. An Interesting Incident in the Classroom

We had our Maths period and all the students were sitting and waiting for the teacher to come. Mrs. Juli, the Maths teacher was one of the strictest teacher of the school. She found reasons to give punishment. One of the student stood up when asked about his notebook. Mrs. Juli shouted and said that how can he forget to get his notebook. The student replied that he brought from home but his bag got stollen. Mrs. Juli was shocked and looked here and there of his bag. In the end she believed that he was telling truth and excused him. The whole day that boy gained sympathy from the teachers. After the school got over, he brought his bag back from the Principal's office. Everybody asked him that how did he do so. He replied that he had kept the bag in front of office so that he called collect it later from the lost property department. All were shocked on his mischievous idea of hiding the bag. It was really interesting.

12. Most Valuable Lesson that you have Learned

The most valuable lesson which a person can learn is value of money. I got Rs 200 in Diwali from my father. The next day I was so keen to buy chocolates from me that I rushed to the store with my elder brother and bought them. As soon as I got out of the store I saw three children of my age who were polishing others shoes to earn money. My brother explained me that they are doing so just to earn money for their living. I felt guilty as I on the other hand wasted my money on chocolates which I could have asked to give them. In regret, I distributed my chocolates to them and my brother gave them some money, which brought smiles on their face. Since then I always save few amount of my pocket money to donate it to the needy person.

Dear Roma

Hope you are doing well. I am writing this letter to inform you that Annual Day celebration was held in our school last week. It was wonderful and all of us had great fun.

The program started with a welcoming song and Saraswati Pooja. It was very delightful to see students dancing and singing, elegantly dressed up in Indian attire. Then, there were performances of different classes and the theme was the culture and tradition of India. It was a great annual day. We got cakes and chips as refreshments.

Though me and my family enjoyed it, but I missed you alot.

Give my love to uncle and aunt. Please do write me back.

With love

Dear Mom

Hope you are doing well. I have a good news for you.

I had participated in dance competition last week. You will be glad to know that I stood first in it. I performed 'Bharatnatyam' as it was classical dance competition. The judges and teachers all loved my performance and gave very nice comments. I got a gold medal and a cash prize of Rs. 1000 too.

Though I am very happy, but I missed your presence. Hope to see you soon. Give my love to dad and Mona.

Yours Lovingly

1. A Dreamy Astronomer

Once there was boy who wanted to become astronomer. He always dreamt of going in the space. He was so fond of the universe that he used to observe things in the sky very minutely. He used to lay down and stare the sky at night. One day, he was walking on the road seeing constellations in the sky and suddenly his leg slipped. He had fallen into a ditch and started shouting for help. A passerby helped him and asked him how did he feel. The astronomer boy said that he didn't notice the ditch. After hearing this passerby advised the boy to first note the things under his nose and later discover things from the sky.

2. Excess of Everything is Bad

Saurabh, an eight year boy was a very disobedient child. He never obeyed his mother. He was very fond of eating cashew nuts. He always asked more and more from his mother. His mother replied that excess of everything is bad. One day his mother was not at home. Saurabh was very happy, as he was alone and could eat as much cashew as he wanted to. He ate the whole jar of cashew nuts. He finished the cashews in the jar and later suffered from severe stomach ache. He realised his mistake and promised to obey elder as they are well wishers and can never give bad advice to us.

1. "Flattery Never Pays"

Once, a crow stole a piece of meat from a cook who was cooking in the backyard. The crow flew away snatching the piece of meat. It went and sat on a tree in the forest. The smell of delicious meat, reached the nose of a cunning fox. The fox came and stood under the tree. The fox started praising crow's voice. Fox said that he had never heard someone so melodious like a crow. The crow was filling with joy. The fox kept on praising the crow's voice. Then the fox pleaded and flattered the crow to sing a song for the fox. The crow shook his head and denied to sing. The fox pleaded again and said that it would call crow the king if it sang. Hearing this the crow opened his mouth and the piece of meat fell down. The fox grabbed it and ran away calling the crow a foolish flattery animal.

2. "A Foolish Elephant's Child Who Wants to Fly"

Once, there was an elephant's child that wanted to fly like birds. But he couldn't fly as elephants don't have wings. One day he came up with brilliant idea. He tied a bunch of balloons together so he could float into the air. He floated up, up and up into the sky. He enjoyed with birds and butterflies. He saw the cloud and felt amazing. In the evening the balloons air got reduced and the elephant came back to the land. After coming back he realised that it is same like on land and he is made for land. He feels more comfortable and can enjoy more if he plays with his friends on land. From that day, the boy elephant never demanded or dreamt of flying high in the sky. Rather, he enjoyed playing with butterflies on the land itself.

3. "Who will bell the cat?"

Long time ago there lived a big family of mice in a town. One day there came a cat in their locality. It started having each mouse one by one everyday. This frightened the mice and they called for a meeting at an assigned time. All the mice gathered and started discussing the terror of cat. Some said to stay inside their houses, some said to shift to a new place. Suddenly, a young mouse gave an idea to tie a bell around cat's neck so that they can hear the bell when cat approached. The young mouse again suggested to tie a bell as a form of medal on cat's neck as cat is flattered with its appraisal. Every body applauded on his idea. The next day they all went to cat and foolish cat did not understand that it was a trick and got the bell tied on its neck. From that day no mouse in the locality was killed as they came to know the presence of cat by singing of the bell.

4. "Tit for Tat"

The crane and a fox were good friends. They used to share their food. One day the crane invited the fox to dinner. The fox was hungry and thought that his friend must have arranged good meal for him. But when the food was served by the crane, it was in a narrow pot from which fox couldn't lick and have food. He sat ideally. The fox thanked the crane suppressing his anger. He also invited the crane next day for dinner at his place. The crane thought that it should go early and have good food at fox's house. The fox received crane and welcomed it. It offered a soup in a plate. They looked each other. The crane eat ideally and watched fox having dinner. After the dinner the fox asked crane that how was the dinner. The crane said it was fine and really enjoyed it. The hungry crane had to return home without dinner. He realised its mistake which it did with the fox.

5. "Once a Liar, Always a Liar"

There was a young boy who took the sheeps for grazing. He looked after them as sat ideally under the tree. One day he was feeling bored and decided to do something wicked. He started shouting, "wolf, wolf, help, help". The villagers ran and came to him. They all showed sympathy and offered help to the young boy. The young boy enjoyed it and did the same for two three times. All the villagers then realised that the young boy do this for fun and decided not to hear his shout again. But, one day in real a wolf came and attacked the sheeps. The boy cried heavily asking for help but no one came. It was then when the boy realised that one should not lie. It you lie once, the others do not trust you even if you are telling truth the next time.
